

Clinical product specialist

Organisation

Bayer

Description

Due to the exciting expansion of the clinical role within our UK team we are looking to recruit three new clinical product specialists. The successful applicants will demonstrate an eagerness to learn and drive self-development to support colleagues and to strengthen the existing customer focus within our business. They will provide an expert level of scientific and technical guidance, within a commercial context, in allocated therapeutic areas to internal and external customers. Previous experience with Bayer/Medrad products is not essential as candidates will receive full product training. The territories to be covered by the three positions are:

Scotland, Northern Ireland and North East England
London and South East
South West

Qualifications, experience and skills:

- solid experience of the healthcare industry, preferably radiology;
- ability to use IT as a business tool;
- presentation skills;
- MRI/CT/cross-sectional imaging experience would be advantageous;
- full driving license (a company car is provided).

If you are seeking to use your radiography background, are ready for a new challenge and want to join a global company with a sound radiology history then please go to our careers page: <https://career.bayer.co.uk/en> to find out more and apply.
